

January 13-16, Somatic Spirituality: how we worship with our bodies

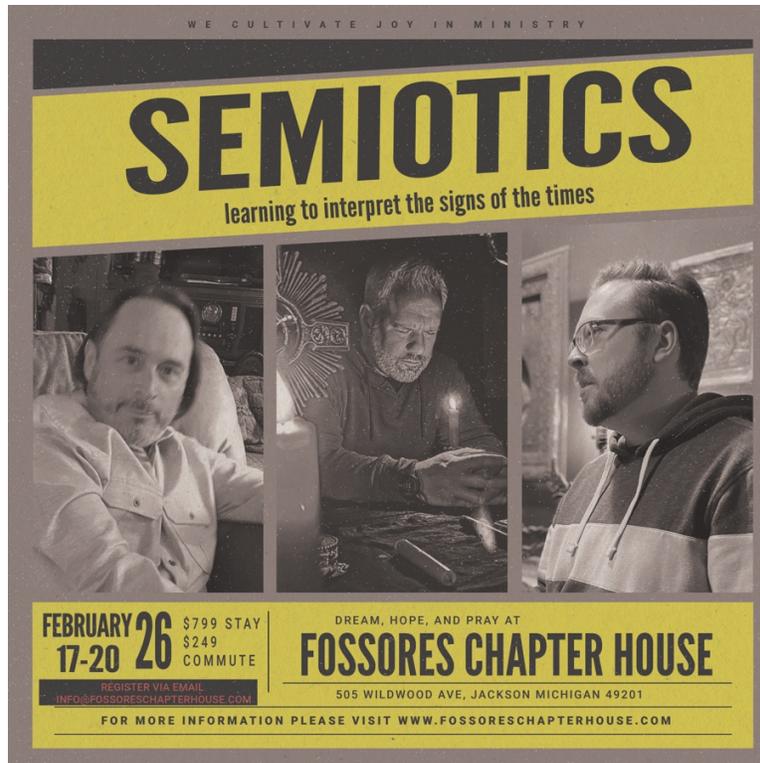

Tuesday 6pm – Friday 10am

Cost: Free with monthly membership; $799 overnight; $249 commuter

There is massive crossover between what we do with our bodies and what happens with our souls. Taking care of our physicality is more than vanity or hobby or sport; on the contrary, our bodies are how we manifest love in the world. And the world needs love. And for you to provide as much love as possible, to all the people who need you the most, you're going to need to be stronger. Join us as we explore issues like mental and physical fitness, endurance, and passion; training like a pro; nutrition, active rest and recovery; and what to do when your schedule doesn't allow for optimization.

You will learn:

- * What, and who, your body is for*
- * How to love and appreciate your body*
- * How to employ your body in ministry, love, and friendship*
- * To reconcile our insecurities with gospel, anxiety, and ambition*
- * The biblical underpinnings for health, holiness, and sexuality*

February 17-20, Semiotics Bootcamp: learning to understand the times

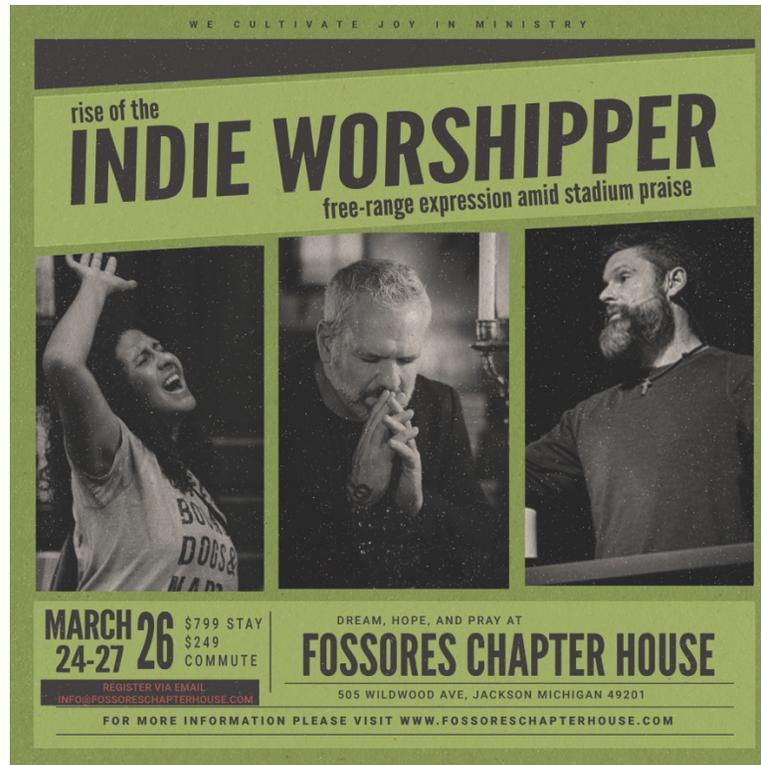

Tuesday 6pm – Friday 10am

Cost: Free with monthly membership; $799 overnight; $249 commuter

There is a powerful connection between the signs we see in culture and the work of Christian ministry. Understanding semiotics is more than analysis or theory; it's how we translate the language of our world to share love and hope effectively. And the world needs that message now more than ever. To reach people where they are—through trends, memes, and cultural forecasts—you'll need fresh insight and creativity. Join us as we explore how to interpret cultural signals, engage with innovation, and respond with ministry that resonates deeply in today's fast-changing world.

You will learn:

- How to recognize and interpret the signs shaping culture and communication
- To decode trends, memes, and forecasts relevant to Christian ministry
- How to apply semiotic insights to create innovative ministry strategies
- To engage your community with messages that resonate in today's cultural language
- Ways to anticipate and adapt to emerging cultural shifts with faith-centered creativity

March 24-27, Rise of the Indie Worshipper

Tuesday 6pm – Friday 10am

Cost: Free with monthly membership; $799 overnight; $249 commuter

There's a new wave rising in worship—a call for freedom beyond the stadium lights and scripted songs. The rise of the indie worshipper is more than a trend; it's a movement toward authentic, free-range expression that stirs the soul and invites real connection. And the world needs that raw, unfiltered love. To join this movement, you'll need courage to step beyond the familiar and creativity to embrace new ways of praise. Join us as we explore personal worship styles, songwriting, intimate community gatherings, and how to cultivate a worship life that is both genuine and vibrant.

You will learn:

- What it means to worship freely beyond traditional settings
- How to discover and nurture your unique worship expression
- Ways to create worship experiences that foster authentic connection

July 21-24, Growth: developing a scorecard for our ministries that honors and pleases God

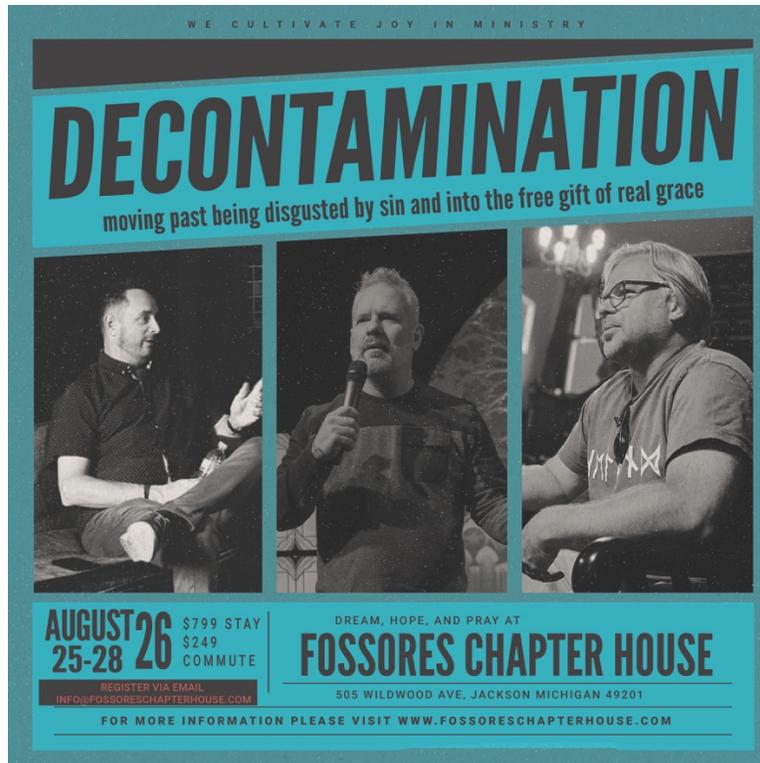

Tuesday 6pm – Friday 10am

Cost: Free with monthly membership; $799 overnight; $249 commuter

Growth in ministry is about more than numbers or milestones—it's about faithfulness and fruitfulness that honor God. Developing a scorecard for your ministry is not just strategy; it's a way to measure what truly matters in God's eyes. And to lead well, you'll need clarity on what reflects healthy growth and Kingdom impact. Join us as we explore how to create meaningful, biblical metrics that guide your ministry's progress, celebrate God's work, and inspire ongoing faithfulness. Together, we'll build a scorecard that brings accountability, vision, and joy in serving the mission God has entrusted to you.

You will learn:

- How to define ministry growth that reflects faithfulness and fruitfulness
- What biblical values shape meaningful ministry measurement
- Ways to design a scorecard that highlights Kingdom impact, not just numbers
- How to use metrics to celebrate God's work and guide your team
- Practical steps to foster accountability, vision, and joyful service through your scorecard

August 25-28, Decontamination: moving past being disgusted by sin and into the free gift of real grace

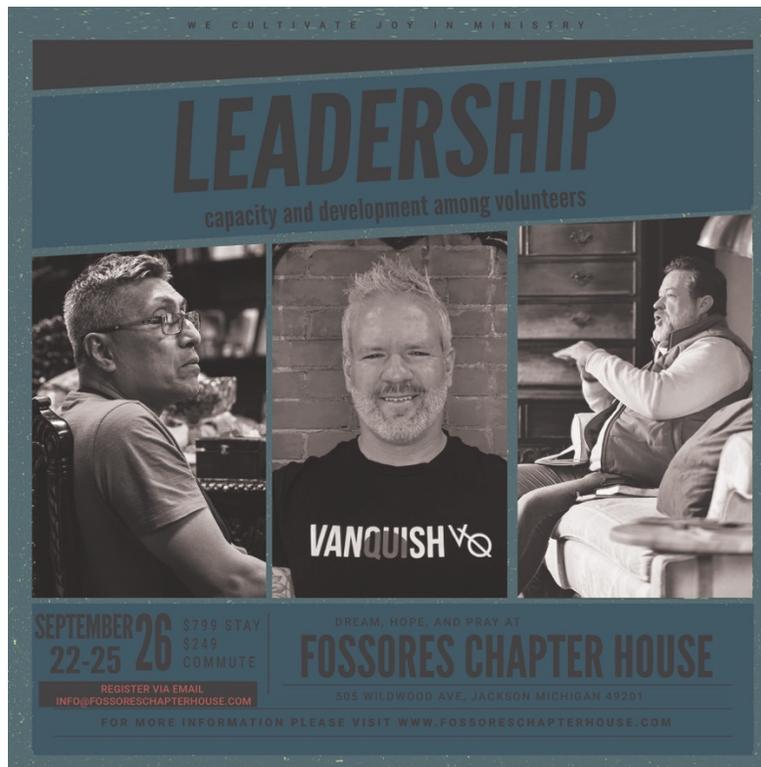

Tuesday 6pm – Friday 10am

Cost: Free with monthly membership; $799 overnight; $249 commuter

There's a deep human response to sin—disgust, shame, distance. But God invites us beyond those heavy places into the freedom of real grace. Decontamination is more than feeling better or trying harder; it's a journey into healing and restoration that transforms how we live and love. And the world needs that grace, starting with us. Join us as we explore how to move past condemnation, embrace God's forgiveness, and walk in freedom. Together, we'll discover how grace cleanses, renews, and empowers us to live fully as beloved children of God, free and whole.

You will learn:

- How to recognize and move beyond labelling people
- What real grace looks like in daily life and ministry
- Ways to embrace God's forgiveness as a source of freedom
- How to cultivate healing and restoration through grace

November 17-20, Truth: How to apply scripture without weaponizing it

Tuesday 6pm – Friday 10am

Cost: Free with monthly membership; $799 overnight; $249 commuter

Truth in scripture is life-giving, but too often it's used as a weapon that wounds and divides. Applying scripture without weaponizing it means embracing a posture of humility, love, and grace. And the world desperately needs that kind of truth—one that heals rather than harms. To share God's Word well, you'll need wisdom, empathy, and a heart aligned with Christ's example. Join us as we explore how to engage scripture with compassion, listen deeply, and speak truth in ways that build up rather than tear down. Together, we'll learn to wield the Word as a source of hope and healing.

You will learn:

- How to approach scripture with humility and grace
- Ways to apply biblical truth without judgment or harm
- How to cultivate empathy when sharing God's Word
- Strategies for listening deeply before speaking truth
- Practical tools for using scripture to encourage and heal
